ORDER OF EXERCISES

PRESIDING

PRESIDENT NANCY SCHROM DYE

HONORARY MARSHAL—BRUCE PARTRIDGE, A.B. '46
PRESIDENT OF THE CLASS OF 1946
PROCESSION MARSHAL—ROBERT ALAN HASLUN, A.B. '67
SECRETARY OF THE COLLEGE

The outdoor Academic Procession has its antecedents in medieval Oxford University. The Procession is designed so that each graduating senior passes before each faculty member one final time before the conferring of the degrees. The colorful nature of the Procession comes from the academic hoods worn by the faculty. The hoods are lined with silk in the official academic color or colors of the institution which granted the faculty member's degree; they are trimmed in velvet the color indicating the discipline to which the degree pertains.

The audience will rise when the procession moves down the aisle.

VIII. CONFERRING OF THE AWARD FOR DISTINGUISHED SERVICE TO THE COMMUNITY

PRESIDENT DYE

Candidate for the Award for Distinguished Service to the Community

Jane Baker Nord

Through her philanthropic work, her support for the arts and her advocacy of educational and economic opportunity for the citizens of Lorain County, artist Jane Baker Nord has made of her life a masterpiece. A trustee of the Nord Family Foundation since its creation in 1988, where hers has been a respected, persuasive and effective voice, she stands as a sterling example of how commitment to human equality and diversity and sustenance for the arts is vital to the quality of life.

In partnership with Eric, her husband of 48 years, and with her colleagues on the Foundation's Community Properties Committee, which she chaired, Jane's most recent endeavors helped guide the fate of historic Westervelt Hall, encouraging its reuse for the Lorain County community and transforming it into the New Union Center for the Arts.

Jane Nord was born in Cleveland, Ohio. A 1938 graduate of Shaker Heights High School, she went on to earn an A.B. degree at Vassar College. She attended the Pratt Institute in Brooklyn, New York, and taught a course there titled "Design and History of Costume." After a stint of freelance design work in New York City, she returned to Cleveland in 1947. She and Eric were married a year later.

The Nords made their home in Oberlin, and their family soon grew. Their children are: Virginia N. Barbato, Emily N. McClintock, Carlotte N. Berk and Richard E. Nord. A son, Eric B. Nord, is deceased. They have 12 grandchildren.

While her children were young, Jane became a volunteer for the Erie Shores Girl Scout Council—serving first as troop leader and later as service chairperson. Her involvement with the Girl Scouts would last for 15 years.

Jane ultimately returned to school, earning a master of arts degree in art education from Case Western Reserve University in 1976. With several other Oberlin-area artists, she founded FAVA—the Firelands Association for the Visual Arts—in 1979. She served as a board member of the Cleveland Center for Contemporary Art from 1983 to 1989 and presently serves on the visiting committee of the Allen Memorial Art Museum at Oberlin College and the Board of the Friends of the Frances Lehman Loeb Art Center at Vassar College.

For 25 years Brooks has been affiliated with Rutgers University, where he became the first African-American MFA graduate in acting and directing, and where he is a tenured professor of theater at the Mason Gross School of the Arts.

ROBERT COLES, DOCTOR OF HUMANITIES

Pulitzer Prize-winning author Dr. Robert Coles, a researcher and professor of psychiatry at Harvard University, is one of the world's foremost authorities on childhood. For more than 30 years, Coles has been working with and writing about children. His 56 books examine children caught in racial struggles, children of migrant workers, children and drugs, and children of poverty and privilege.

He received the Pulitzer Prize in 1973 for his five-volume series Children of Crisis, the final edition of which is an extended study of the spiritual and religious lives of children. His most recent book is The Call of Service: A Witness to Idealism, published in 1993 by Houghton Mifflin. His other published works include more than 1,100 articles, reviews and essays. Coles is a contributing editor to The New Republic, Aperture, The American Poetry Review and The New Oxford Review. He is also one of the editors of DoubleTake magazine.

Coles is a research psychiatrist for Harvard University Health Services, as well as professor of psychiatry and medical humanities at Harvard Medical School. In addition, he is the James Agee Professor of Social Ethics at Harvard University. Since 1963 Coles has been a consultant to the Southern Regional Council on Psychiatric Aspects of Desegregation in the South, and since 1965 he has been a consultant to the Appalachian Volunteers and a member of the National Advisory Committee on Farm Labor. He is also a member of the National Sharecroppers Fund.

Besides the Pulitzer Prize, Cole has received numerous other awards, including a fellowship from the John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation, the McAlpin Medal of the National Association of Mental Health, the Hofheimer Award of the American Psychiatric Association and the Anisfield-Wolf Award in Race Relations of the Saturday Review.

University College of Physicians and Surgeons. He is a co-founder and member of the Board of Directors of the Center for Documentary Studies

HARRY B. GRAY, DOCTOR OF SCIENCE

Harry B. Gray is director of the Beckman Institute and Arnold O. Beckman Professor of Chemistry at the California Institute of Technology. Gray began his work in inorganic chemistry with Fred Basolo and Ralph Pearson at Northwestern University, where he earned his Ph.D. in 1960. After a postdoctoral year with Carl Ballhausen at the University of Copenhagen, he joined the chemistry faculty at Columbia University, and in 1966 he moved to Caltech. He was elected to the National Academy of Sciences in 1971 and is a member also of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and the Royal Danish Academy of Arts and Letters.

Gray has investigated the syntheses, structures, and reactions of inorganic complexes, and for more than 20 years he has worked on the electronic structures and electron-transfer reactions of metalloproteins. Indeed, this work constitutes one of the major contributions of Gray and his many students—an ingenious method of study that yielded new understanding about the complicated interaction of electron motion and molecular motion. Throughout his career Gray has been an enthusiastic teacher, a leader in chemistry curriculum revision and an author of widely used textbooks, as well as a prominent spokesman for chemical education.

For his contributions to bioinorganic chemistry and inorganic photochemistry, he received the National Medal of Science from President Reagan in 1986. Along with many honorary degrees, Gray's activities have been recognized by the Priestley Award of the American Chemical Society and the Gold Medal from the American Institute of Chemists. He was named California Scientist of the Year in 1988, and more recently he has received the Pauling Medal, the Gibbs Medal, the Waterford Prize, the Bader Award and the Linderstrøm-Lang Prize.

CHRISTOPHER ROUSE, DOCTOR OF MUSIC

Pulitzer Prize-winning composer Christopher Rouse, OC '71, is one of the most acclaimed composers of his generation. Among the renowned artists and ensembles to commission his work are Yo-Yo Ma, Emanuel Ax, Jan de Gaetani, Evelyn Glennie, Cho-Liang Lin, Dawn Upshaw, Carol Wincenc, the Cleveland Quartet, the Chamber Music Society of Lincoln Center, the London Symphony, the Cleveland Orchestra, the Los Angeles Philharmonic, the Houston Symphony, the Saint Louis Symphony and the Philadelphia Orchestra. Every major American orchestra has played Rouse's works. He has also composed scores for the Aspen Music Festival, the New York International Festival of the Arts, the New England Conservatory, Chamber Music America and Nonesuch Records.

Rouse is especially known for his orchestral music; it has been performed throughout the world under the direction of such conductors as Christoph Eschenbach, Riccardo Muti, Sir Simon Rattle, Leonard Slatkin and David Zinman.

Rouse received the Pulitzer Prize in Music in 1993 for his Trombone Concerto, a three-movement work commissioned for the New York Philharmonic's 150th anniversary. He dedicated the piece to the memory of Leonard Bernstein, at whose invitation Rouse had served as composer-in-residence at the 1989 Santa Cecilia and Schleswig-Holstein Festivals.

Also in 1993, Rouse was named winner of the American Academy of Arts and Letters Award in Music. His other major honors include awards from the Guggenheim Foundation, the League of Composers/ISCM, the National Endowment for the Arts, the Rockefeller Foundation and the American Music Center. His Symphony No. 1 was awarded the Kennedy Center Friedheim Award in 1988.

A professor of composition at the Eastman School of Music since 1981, Rouse also taught, from 1978 to 1981, at the University of Michigan, where he was a Fellow in the University's Society of Fellows. From 1986 to 1989 he served as composer-in-residence with the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra under the auspices of the Meet the Composer Orchestra Residencies Program.

His works, published by Boosey and Hawkes and by European American Music Corporation, are recorded on the BMG, Sony, Argo, BIS, Nonesuch, New World, Spectrum and Golden Crest labels.

Born in Baltimore, Maryland in 1949, Rouse received the bachelor of music degree from the Oberlin College Conservatory of Music in 1971. He earned master's and doctoral degrees from Cornell University (1977). He cites George Crumb, Karel Husa, Randolph Coleman and Richard Hoffmann among his major teachers.
